

Rangnang Museum—Showcase for Old Culture

The Rangnang Museum is located in Rangnang District in Pyongyang, the capital city of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

The museum keeps historical relics and remains, which show the Rangnang Civilization created by the people of Ancient Joseon (early 30th century BC–108 BC) in its late period and their descendants.

It is composed of a history section, a folk game section and a leisure area, and more than 2 000 pieces of relics and remains representing the relevant period are on display there.

Many people visit it every day and have a good time experiencing the old culture.

The museum was inaugurated in September last year.

Rangnang Museum in Rangnang District, Pyongyang

Relics and remains on display

Restored ancient tombs showing the custom of the burial custom and architectural skills of the ancient people

Pyongyang citizens enjoying folk games in the museum on a holiday