

Kumya Migratory Bird Reserve

Kumya wetland situated in the wide area covering the shore of Songjon Bay and Lagoon Ha on the east coast of Korea is a regular home to a dozen species of endangered birds and 20 000 migratory birds. The Kumya Migratory Bird Reserve was registered in the East Asian-Australian Flyway in 2018.

